“HyperMotion Technology” also introduces “First Touch Control,” which makes dribbling and shooting feel more true-to-life and authentic. By measuring and analysing which part of the body and what speed players touch the ball when they dribble, the “First Touch Control” will enable players to control the ball like a real midfielder. Players will also have more authentic movement patterns in “HyperMotion Technology” as well as be more weighty, powerful, and accurate in passing and shooting with more feedback on their shots, whether they are “left” or “right.” In addition to these new features in FIFA 22, FIFA Manager and FIFA Ultimate Team will also feature completely new customisation elements, such as new player kits and player images, and dynamic new stadiums and enhanced match presentations. Players can create their ideal team from FIFA Ultimate Team and then go to a match to compete in completely new ways, adding tactics and strategy elements that have been extracted from real-world matches. With their own brand of football-specific style, players can even challenge other players on the pitch. FIFA 22 is launching on PlayStation 4, Xbox One, and PC on November 29th, while FIFA Manager will be released on iOS, Android, and Windows 10 tablets, on October 5th. was bound by the Settlement Agreement; and (3) if Plaintiffs' Motion for Summary Judgment had been granted, York could have availed itself of the provisions of the Settlement Agreement. 24 The District Court determined that "York has clearly established the first prerequisite and the prerequisites associated with that presumption." (App. at 74.) The court then concluded that the record contained evidence that "[York] received the goods in good faith and without knowledge that the goods were stolen." (Id. at 75.) Because the record supported a finding that York was entitled to summary judgment, the court denied Plaintiffs' Motion. 25 In their

Response to York's Motion for Summary Judgment, Plaintiffs did not present argument or evidence as to the first prerequisite. Instead, Plaintiffs maintained that York could not avail itself of the defense to Section 2-607(3)(a) because York had not obtained legal title to the goods from the supplier. In fact, there is no suggestion that the resale by York of the stolen goods did not comport with the law.

26 Plaintiffs again failed to
